ADDENDUM

Additional Addendum Studies

1. The E-RSC has requested that the benefits and costs from the study be allocated to each of the Entergy System retail jurisdictions. The Entergy System Agreement will govern how costs and benefits from the regional results are allocated among the individual Entergy Operating Companies. Entergy will perform calculations regarding the Entergy System Agreement using its resources in support of the Entergy CBA Studies. Based on the wishes of the APSC and MPSC, the following assumptions would be used:
   a. All Entergy Operating Companies are governed by the System Agreement for all scenarios prior to 2014.
   b. Entergy Arkansas and Entergy Mississippi would no longer participate in the System Agreement beginning in the years 2014 and 2016, respectively.
   c. The remaining four Operating Companies continue to participate in the System Agreement for all scenarios throughout the study period.

2. The APSC has requested the impacts to Entergy Arkansas, Inc. (EAI), as a stand-alone entity compared to continuing under the current ICT services arrangement as a member of the Entergy System.

3. If additional studies are requested, the details regarding the different future scenarios/sensitivities for analyses, will be defined by SPP with guidance from the E-RSC and input from stakeholders and the Entergy System, and developed during the analyses portion of Study 1. The need and value of supplemental analyses including sensitivities will be driven by the needs of the individual Entergy Retail Regulators, as well as transmission customers and affected stakeholder groups. The cost allocations for additional studies will be used to realize any efficiencies in completing these analyses for CBA Study and additional studies. Entergy will perform the calculations necessary to evaluate the impact from regarding the Entergy System Agreement using its resources in support of the studies. Stakeholders who are interested in the impact of these scenarios and sensitivities need to be engaged in the process during the analyses portion of the CBA Study, when the scope for Study 2 will be determined and finalized.

4. During the first phase of the CBA Study, parties interested in an enhanced ICT services arrangement will define the elements that would be enhanced as well as determine how they can be evaluated to determine the costs and benefits of an enhanced ICT services arrangement.

5. During the first phase of the CBA Study, parties interested in an enhanced seams arrangement will define the elements that would be enhanced as well as determine how they can be evaluated to determine the costs and benefits of an enhanced seams arrangement.

Comment [A1]: Not sure what is meant here. Do you mean that current cost allocation mechanism will be used evaluate the impacts on specific operating companies?

Comment [A2]: What’s study 2?
- Funding for these addendum studies will be provided shared equitably by affected parties who are interested in and commit to supporting any addendum study(ies) of interest this effort.
